Illinois Traffic Stop Conduct for Motorists

Pull over at the first safe place - Immediately

If you see police lights in your mirror, pull over as soon as possible in a safe, well-lit place that won't put you, or the officer at risk. Turn off your engine and radio, and have your passengers keep quiet. While the officer reviews your information in his car, quickly review this Guide (without fumbling or digging to find it) to reduce your chances of getting a ticket.

As the officer approaches your car - Keep your hands visible

The officer does not know you and is nervous when approaching your car. A number of officers get shot every year on routine traffic stops. To help alleviate his fear, roll down your window, and place your hands spread out on either the steering wheel, or on your door. Do not make any sudden moves. Wait to get your license and insurance when asked to do so by the officer. If your insurance card is in the glove box, ask the officer if you may open the glove box to retrieve it.

The time to review these Guidelines IS NOT during a traffic stop.

Become familiar with these suggestions by reviewing them from time to time so that when it counts, they are second nature.

Stay calm & courteous

Be friendly to the officer, they are only doing their job. They are much more likely to issue a ticket(s) if you are being rude or belligerent.

DO NOT admit guilt

Many police cars have video cameras and audio recorders. What you say or do may be recorded, and can be used in court. For instance, if the officer asks, "Do you know why I stopped you?" your reply should be "I'm not sure why, officer."

DO NOT make excuses

Making excuses will not get you out of a ticket and can be taken as an admission of guilt. The officer has probably heard it all anyway. In particular, do not make up a story to explain your alleged violation as it can come back to haunt you in court.

Ask for a warning

If the officer has not begun writing a ticket, yet states that you have violated the traffic law, ask for a warning. Without admitting guilt, inform the officer that you try to be a courteous and law-abiding driver and that you would appreciate a warning instead of a ticket.

What do I do if I'm issued a ticket?

Take a few minutes to write down exactly what happened. Record the date, time, place, weather, traffic conditions, officer's name, badge number and note any inconsistencies in the officer's reason for stopping you. Don't worry about signing the ticket; it is not an admission of guilt. Refusing to sign the ticket can become grounds for the officer to arrest you.

Illinois DUI Stops and Checkpoints

What if I'm asked about drinking?

You will have to make a judgment call about how to answer. First of all, don't lie. Lying leads to complications if the officer decides to charge you with DUI or DWI, remember that everything you do or say is probably being recorded.

A. If you have not been drinking, tell the officer you have not been drinking.

B. If you have engaged in very light drinking and believe you are not intoxicated, inform the officer because being honest may help you later in your defense.

C. If you are intoxicated, politely inform the officer that your attorney has instructed you to never answer an officer's questions without him or her present.

What if I'm asked to get out of my vehicle?

In Illinois an officer has the right to order you and any passengers out of the vehicle. Failing to comply may give the officer grounds to arrest you. Be polite and comply with the officer's requests. From the time the officer approaches your car, you are being videotaped and recorded. Everything you do is being scrutinized for probable cause to arrest you. NEVER admit to drinking many drinks.

What if I'm asked to take a test?

There are two types of tests you could be asked to take. Field Sobriety Tests (FSTs) cover a variety of physical tests to determine sobriety. In Illinois, there is no legal consequence for refusing FSTs. Since these tests are generally used to gather evidence and many factors can influence your performance, politely refusing to take FSTs can be the right decision in most cases.

Refusing to take breath tests, on the other hand, typically result in severe consequences. In Illinois your driver's license will be automatically revoked for as long as a year (even if you are not convicted) and your refusal to submit to the breath test can be admitted as evidence against you. If you believe you are sober and want to keep your license, submit to the breath test, and if given a choice, choose the more accurate blood test (less chance of a false positive). If you believe you are not sober, DO NOT TAKE THE BREATH TEST. If you are underage or were involved in an accident with an injury, your best course of action may be to refuse all testing.

I tested over the legal limit, does that mean I am guilty?

NO! Sobriety tests are merely evidence against you and not conclusive proof that you violated the law. There are many, many factors to consider when planning your defense, including the conduct of the police officers, the accuracy of the test and how it was administered as well as the timing of the test.

ALWAYS request an independent test of your sample.

If the officer is not able to preserve your sample (which may be the case with a breath test) request that you be given a different test (like blood or urine) that can be preserved and independently tested.

Illinois Searches and Arrests

What if the officer asks to search my vehicle?

Do not consent to anyone searching your vehicle! Do not hand the officer your keys or unlock or open doors for the officer, as this will imply permission. Generally speaking, an officer requests permission to search your vehicle as he looks for weapons, illegal drugs or evidence of drinking, all things that could put you in jail if any of them they are found. Politely state that your attorney has advised you not to consent to police searches.

What if the officer threatens to call for a warrant or drug sniffing dogs?

Again, refuse to consent to the search. You will be no better off by consenting to the search, and many times officers use these types of threats to convince you to consent.

What if the officer wants to search my person?

Do not consent to police searching your person! Do not open your jacket or pull out your pockets as these action may imply you have given consent to be searched. Illinois law allows officers to pat an individual down (frisk) to make sure no weapons are present (for the safety of the officer). 'Reasonable suspicion' is the standard for officers justifying a pat down and can mean just about anything. Following the Guidelines for a traffic stop is the best way to avoid this type of search and gives you the best chance to challenge them in court.

What do I do if you're arrested?

Remain cooperative and polite with the officer(s). Do not resist, struggle or argue with the officers a keeping in mind that the entire encounter is probably being video taped. Refuse to answer any questions the officer(s) have and do not engage in 'polite conversation' with them at anytime. Do not speak to ANYONE about your case (police, friends, relatives, cell mates or staff) until you have met with your attorney (you never know who is listening). Contact an attorney ASAP, either directly or through a close friend or relative. Request a hearing to determine bail at the earliest possible time.

What happens to my vehicle?

Unless the police allow a passenger to take possession of your vehicle, it will be searched, towed and impounded. During a legitimate arrest, the police are allowed to search your person and your vehicle, whether you have consented or not.

What if I'm not read my (Miranda) rights?

Charges against you will not be dismissed because you were not read your rights. In some cases a judge (not the police or prosecutor) will refuse to admit evidence against you that was obtained without notifying you of your rights. The best course of action is to not answer any police questions or engage in communication about your arrest with anyone until you have spoken with your attorney. During the process of being arrested, processed and jailed there are eyes and ears everywhere.

What do I do now?

Find yourself a good attorney to handle your DUI. There is simply too much at risk to handle the situation yourself. Call "Kelly Kirwin" at 815-582-1151 and I will arrange for a FREE consultation about your DUI or traffic ticket case. On my website www.IllinoisSpeedingTicketLawyer.com I have additional information to help you understand the charges against you, the potential outcomes and how you can fight the charges and protect your rights.

Do not wait! Many states will automatically revoke your license unless you take steps to protect it.

If your license has been revoked, we can help you get a provisional license that will allow you to work and take care of your family. The Law Firm of Kelly Kirwin is here to help you stay on the road, keep your record clean and protect your rights.

Tips to avoid getting pulled over in Illinois

Avoid behaviors associated with intoxicated drivers

The National Highway Traffic Administration has identified a list of symptoms commonly used by law enforcement to spot intoxicated drivers. They include:

- Turning with a wide radius
- Straddling center of lane marker
- Weaving "Appearing to be drunk"
- Almost striking object or vehicle
- Swerving
- Driving on other than designated highway
- Tires on center or lane marker
- Speed more than 10 mph below limit
- Stopping without cause in traffic lane
- Following too closely
- Signaling inconsistent with driving actions

- Drifting
- Braking erratically
- Driving into opposing or crossing traffic
- Headlights off
- Slow response to traffic signals
- Stopping inappropriately (other than in lane)
- Turning abruptly or illegally
- Accelerating or decelerating rapidly

Be Conscious Of "High Ticket" Hours

There are certain times of the day, week and year when officers are even more likely to pull you over. The closing time for local bars gives police an opportunity to search for drunk drivers. Similarly, weekend nights like Friday and Saturday are popular nights to pull over drunk drivers. Also, special days like national holidays, sporting events and concerts can give officers a reason to pull over more drivers.

Do not stand out from the pack

If you are driving on any highway, do not drive significantly faster than the speed of traffic. Troopers look for vehicles that stand out from others. In addition, do not weave in and out of traffic, as this behavior attracts attention from troopers as well.

Keep your vehicle in top operating condition

Any problems with your vehicle, from a burned out bulb to a broken trunk latch, can give an officer a perfectly legal reason to pull you over. Similarly, vehicle modifications like window tint, custom lighting and mufflers that do not meet local vehicle codes give officers reason to pull you over.

Watch for sudden speed limit changes

Many local highways and city streets have speed limit changes that provide natural opportunities for police officers to set up speed traps. As soon as you pass a sign noting a new speed limit, you are required to be at that speed, not just slowing to that speed.
